EPA's Renovation, Repair & Painting Rule Course

Ring's End in association with ChemScope is pleased to announce an offering of the EPA's Renovation, Repair and Painting Rule Course.

As you may or may not be aware, on April 22, 2008, the EPA issued a rule requiring the use of lead-safe practices and other actions aimed at preventing lead poisoning. Under the rule, beginning on April 22, 2010, contractors performing renovation, repair and painting projects that disturb lead-based paint in homes, child care facilities, and schools built before 1978 must be certified and must follow specific work practices to prevent lead contamination.

The certification course will take place at the Ring's End Educational Resource Center. Training will be provided by EPA accredited trainers from ChemScope, Inc.

The cost for the 8 hour course will be $200 which will cover all course materials, a continental breakfast, lunch and light snacks.

8 hour Initial RRP Course:

This course includes lecture, demonstrations and hands-on activities. Topics include: Background information, Regulations, How to use EPA Recognized test kits, Setup, During work activities, cleaning and checking your work, recordkeeping and instruction for training of Non-Certified Renovation Workers.

A course certificate will be awarded to those who successfully complete the course. Attendance of the entire class, demonstrating successful completion of hands-on activities and passing an exam are required.

New lead paint regulations are only about 7 months away, and if you haven't been thinking about it, the time is here.

As one remodeler I was talking to last week said, "This is the biggest thing to happen to remodeling in my 30 years in the business."

While we still don't know exactly what those new rules look like thanks to the EPA's recent shift in direction, we do know they'll take effect April 22, 2010.
